

231

Union dead scattered in a field on the first day at the Battle of Gettysburg. Though the Battle of Gettysburg was a Union Victory, the battle cost the Union over 23,000 casualties.

Title:

[Federal dead on the field of battle of first day, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania

URL:

<http://www.loc.gov/pictures/item/91732542/>

Creator:

Unknown

Date:

[photographed 1863, printed later]

Burying the Union dead at Fredericksburg, Virginia. The Battle of Fredericksburg was a Confederate victory and massive failure for the Union Army with 12,653 Union casualties. More than double the Confederate casualties.

Title:

Fredericksburg, Virginia. Burial of Federal dead

URL:

<http://www.loc.gov/pictures/item/cwp2003004857/PP/>

Creator:

O'Sullivan, Timothy H. 1840-1882 , former attribution

Date:

1864 May [19 or 20].

The Battle of Antietam was the single bloodiest day in American history with ~23,000 casualties. When the battle was over neither side was able to claim victory.

Title:

[Antietam, Md. Bodies of Confederate dead gathered for burial]

URL:

<http://www.loc.gov/pictures/item/cwp2003000134/PP/>

Creator:

Gardner, Alexander, 1821-1882, photographer

Date:

1862 September.